Mick Tuesley Speaks at Ankura’s “Sensitive Stuff: CFIUS Review & Mitigation of Critical Infrastructure Transactions” Program

05.28.21

Head of the Firm’s National Security Regulatory Practice Mick Tuesley was a featured panelist on consulting firm Ankura’s webinar titled, “Sensitive Stuff: CFIUS Review & Mitigation of Critical Infrastructure Transactions” on May 27th. The webinar, which featured an interdisciplinary panel of outside counsel, in-house leaders and infrastructure industry experts, addressed critical infrastructure-related CFIUS regulatory developments under the Biden administration. The panelists discussed a variety of topics, including policy considerations driving CFIUS activity, the relationship between CFIUS and other current Biden administration initiatives related to infrastructure, and tools and techniques used by companies, investors and counsel to successfully navigate the new risk environment.
