Ryan Brizek Quoted in Fund Directions on SEC Rule Enhancing Proxy Voting Disclosure for Registered Funds

11.07.22

Corporate Partner Ryan Brizek was quoted in an article published by Fund Directions titled, “SEC swing pricing rule likely to face intense pushback from fund industry.” The article explored the SEC’s recently adopted rule enhancing proxy voting disclosure for registered funds and institutional investment managers. When discussing the potential impact of the rule Ryan explained, “I do think that for people who are interested in seeing how funds voted, it will make it much easier for them to do so.” He also noted, however, that, “there’s a chance that the information that’s published could be used by other parties in a way that could potentially seek to harm the fund and its shareholders.”
