David Azarkh and Richard Fenyes Quoted in Law360 on Debt Capital Markets Trends

02.17.23

Partners David Azarkh and Richard Fenyes were quoted in a Law360 article titled, “Debt Capital Markets Show Signs Of Thawing In Early 2023” which addressed how debt markets are beginning to show signs of increased activity. Richard noted that, with reference to companies facing looming debt payments that are turning to fundraising, “There are balance-sheet realities of debt maturity that just have to be dealt with. He added that, “People have been on the sidelines for long enough that there is a built-up need to refinance.” David additionally explained that “From an industry perspective, the energy market has been white-hot to start the year.”
